A strike at Schoolcraft Community College was average at the last minute when the teachers' union reached a tentative agreement with college negotiators. The Faculty Forum and board of trustees is expected to ratify the contract within a week so there should be no interruption of classes for Plymouth and Canton students attending Schoolcraft.

Tape recording denial termed illegal by atty.

An attorney for the Michigan Townships Association disagrees with Canton's attomey. Bert Bergoyne, regarding the legality of the township's May 13 resolution which bans any board member from taping a Canton board meeting.

MTA Attorney John H. Bauckham states that a board member has just as much right as any citizen to tape a township board meeting, even if there is a Canton resolution prohibiting officials from taping the proceedings. The May 13 anti-taping resolution was a controversial one at the time and passed by a 4-3 vote. The "Greenstein Team." consisting of Supervisor Robert Greenstein. Treasurer Carl Parsell, Clerk John Flodin and Trustee Jerry Cheske, voted to ban taping by board members, saying that the tapes could be used in court as evidence against the township.

"You're a developing area." stated Bur goyne at the time, "and your new land use plan will bring more lawsuits."

On May 14, the day after the taping ban, Greenstein called in two Wayne County Sheriff's deputies to eject trustees Bob Myers and Brian Schwall who continued to tape the regular meeting.

The deputies said they could not enforce the township resolution. The trustees relinquished their recorders to the audience after Trustee James Poole made a motion to ask for another legal opinion on whether board members could tape meetings even if a board resolution prohibited it.

ON SEPT 17, Bauckham, delivered an opinion which states board members do have the right to tape meetings.

We previously rendered an opinion for another member township of Michigan

April 2, 1975," writes Bauckham "We pointed out in that opinion that although there are some criminal penalties for recording private conversations without the consent of all parties, these statutes do not pertain to public meetings or public conversations

Many township clerks use a tape recorder to assist them in drafting more accurate minutes," Bauckham wrote, "We believe that any other township board member would have a similar right and that the township board could not curtail such a right.

We do believe that board members and the public present should be made aware of the fact that the meeting is being recorded either by an announcement to that effect or by the obvious presence of a tape recorder. This would avoid any claim of surprise or infringement of any personal or property rights

Any tape recordings pose some difficulties with regard to their use in evidence in a court of law," the attorney continued. They must be carefully authenticated and

Townships Association on this subject on satisfactorily shown to not have been in any manner edited. We do not believe it would make any difference in their production as evidence whether the tape recording device was owned or operated by a township board member as distinguished from a private citizen. This would be especially so if they were not officially author ized by action of the township board.

> BAUCKHAM RESPONDED to another question put to him by Poole, regarding the question of whether a supervisor can also be police chief. Bauckham said the supervisor is automatically empowered with law enforcement functions Township board members may be delegated additional functions and may be paid additional compensation for the same." Bauckham states. "Police commissioner was one of the addition functions discussed in this court decision (Burton Township v. Specki

Members of the political team of Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein may end up debating each other this Friday night instead of the political foes they hope to defeat Nov. 2

According to Pam Phillips, vice chairperson of the Democratic Club of Canton and secretary to Greenstein, a candidates night scheduled for Oct. 20 by the League of Women Voters of Northville-PlymouthUniversity Women and the Miller Community Action Council, triggered club members' decision to schedule the debate.

In accordance with national LWV policy sponsors of the candidates night voted to exclude Greenstein and other members of his team who were defeated in the primary from participating. The supervisor's team hope to win election in November through a write-in effort

"We thought the League's responsibility was to represent the political realm as a whole," Mrs. Phillips protested. "But they're being discriminatory. The people of this township have a right to get to know all the candidates. That's what this

Teachers begin slowdown "Because teachers are working without By EMORY DANIELS

Plymouth teachers began this week a job action which most would describe as a

The teachers union, Plymouth Education Association (PEA), has instructed its members to limit their working day only to those hours when pupils are in the build-

The administration has cautioned the PEA that teachers are obligated to work certain hours beyond the time pupils are in the buildings and have warned that disciplinary action could result from the "job

Teachers began the "shortened day" Monday, appeared in force at Monday night's school board meeting, and made plans to begin picketing the board of education offices this coming Monday.

The movement by the PEA represents an escalation of the union's attempts to gain public support and to urge the community to apply pressure on the school board to reach a settlement.

The action, although falling short of a full-fledged strike, is interpreted by administration as a "witholding of contracted services" and is seen as being a "partial CANDI REECE, current PEA president, commented: "The school board gave teachers its 'working rules,' which included an agreement to pay us our 1975-76 increment as of Oct. 1. Now it's said the increment will be paid as of Oct. 22. There seems to be some indecision by the board on this. just as there is indecision in response to our offers at the bargaining table.

"And so we have formed our 'work rules' which represent a type of job action. We are taking this action, in part, because a board negotiator at the table once expressed doubts whether teachers would support their bargaining team.

During our meetings with the membership last week, many teachers said they wanted to do something to demonstrate their support.

A large number of teachers were in the audience at Monday night school board meeting, wearing "Teachers Care" nametags, to compose most of the crowd of about 500. Al Nurmi, chief negotiator for the PEA, explained: "Teachers wanted to do everything positive-short of a striketo demonstrate support for their bargaining team and its position. And so part of our job action will be to turn out in force at subsequent board meetings."

McKINLEY explained that the PEA "work rules" basically state teachers won't put in any extra time beyond the hours students are in class

"That means teachers won't show up for an open house or for staff meetings. Starting Oct. 18, teachers won't perform noon duty or bus duty, and during off-hours we will begin to picket the school board offices," McKinley added. "From Oct. 18 teachers also will refuse to engage in any after-school activitiesexcept for those which cannot be postponed because they cannot be rescheduled.

"Our 'work rules' also mean that teachers won't recognize an inservice day because that hasn't been negotiated or tentatively agreed upon yet. There's an inservice day the administration has called for on Oct. 22, but teachers will report for duty as things now stand."

NORM KEE, chief negotiator for the school board, said the administration has sent a memo to the PEA advising that the suggestions on job actions made by the union weren't in keeping with the work rules established by the administration.

a contract, the administration is under obligation to establish work rules. That has done and what the PEA is now suggesting that teachers do is contrary to those work rules. "We expect teachers to follow provisions in the 1975-76 contract, plus matters on which we have reached tentative agree-

"The administration has advised the PEA that it should rescind its unilateral directives because they are inconsistent and contradictory to established work rules and common practice for teachers," Kee

"The PEA leadership is responsible and liable for such job actions. What they are suggesting involves 'working and striking' because they propose that teachers show up for class but withold other contracted services. There are some obligations teachers are under. Kee said the memo to the PEA did include a caution that disciplinary action might be taken. "We haven't said what action will be taken, when it will be taken, or even if disciplinary action are taken because we hope to avoid such a move.

"But we have reached some tenative agreements which spell out when teachers shall come and go. That's an obligation. Under last year's contract, teachers agreed to report for school 15 minutes before classes open and 30 minutes after classes end, or vice versa. That also is an obligation. We believe that staff meetings is something to which teachers are committed to do. "I will admit there are some job actions suggested where it might not be so clear whether an obligation exists. The inservice day, for instance, hasn't been negotiated yet as the calendar is part of the contract.

"The administration isn't going to move in haste, and take any quick actions against teachers. We just wanted to make sure the PEA was aware that its suggestions violate current agreements and that disciplinary action could result," Kee con-

JOE GRAY, board president, issued a statement just prior to the citizens portion of Monday's meeting.

"We appreciate that the teachers are currently working under last year's contract. Any type of disruption of the educational process could have a harmful effect on the progress of negotiations. As evidence of our good faith and confidence in our professional staff, the Oct. 22 payroll will include payment of all salary in-

"I want to emphasize that the board of education has shown flexibility, patience, and perseverence in seeking a contract with the PEA. The board has made six different proposals. Our team has attended 36 formal negotiation sessions and spent more than 130 hours at the table.

"Through all these long weeks of talking, the two negotiation teams have come closer to an agreement," Gray continued. "Both sides sincerely want a fair settlement, but we differ on how to define what we mean by fair and equitable.

"State labor laws restrict release of information about offers on the negotiating table. We hope to maintain direct communication with teachers and not use publicity to create bad feelings. I want to make it clear before any citizen speaks, that the board does not intend to negotiate at a board meeting. Collective bargaining must take place at the negotiating table."

IN RESPONSE to Gray's statement, McKinley noted that the PEA also was present at all 36 formal negotiation sessions covering more than 130 hours.

"We have made every effort to reach a tell-tale red tablets.

settlement but there has been no board. movement at the table since Sept. 16 and the PEA made its last movement on Sept. 22. We have not been called since Teachers helped last year in making budget cuts and the district ended up with $160,000 in its fund equity.

Nurmi said later that Gray's statement refers to early negotiation history. "He goes back to the beginnings of this year's bargaining, not to mid-September.

Plymouth-Canton school children are presently taking advantage of a $4 Topical Fluoride Treatment program going on through the end of November in the Plymouth Community School District.

Might rename district to JARIFS strengthen Canton identity

The Plymouth Board of Education has asked for a study to be conducted on the possibility of changing the school district's name, possibly to the "Plymouth-Canton Community School District.

The administration was directed to study the feasibility of name change in a motion offered by trustee Tom Yack of Canton and approved 6-0 by the board.

The study would give consideration to a name which "more accurately reflect the compositon of the school community.'

The direction also asks administration to develop a plan to facilitate citizen input into the name changing process.

JOE GRAY, school board president, said the idea of changing to the name "Plymouth-Canton" had been brought up at board workshop sessions and he appreciated the Yack motion because it was "an excellent move and long overdue."

Superintendent John M. Hoben reported that he had already directed Florence Beier, community relations director, to prepare a recommendation on a name change for the next school board meeting. That recommendation will include an explanation of procedures to follow and a summary of relevant passages of school Trustee E.J. McClendon said he approves of putting the item on the agenda so residents can contact board members with suggestions or attend the next school board meeting.

CONSTRUCTION ON 1-275 started more than three years ago with the building of bridges at Schoolcraft and Ann Arbor roads. Since then, the project has moved at a fast pace, culminating with the recent opening from Ford to Schoolcraft

This week, workers were laying concrete south of Ford Road in Canton Township. The pouring operation of the expressway consists of several complicated procedures. First, an auto-grader will grade and level the ground surface of the road for the concrete spreader.

The first spreader will deposit seven inches of concrete onto the grated road. Then, steel-mesh reinforcement is placed over the first layer and another spreader pours three more inches of cement on the mesh. This is the final pouring step of the individual lanes.

Once the concrete is hard enough to support heavy-duty equipment, the trimming or median-shoulder pouring begins. This completes construction on the driving portions of the freeway. Crews will then begin the landscaping, lighting and other projects needed to complete the overall

While I-275 is nearing completion, the proposed M-14 freeway has a long way to go. The highway department awarded its first contract for M-14 in June and work began July 14 near Hines Drive. M-14, which will run east and west from 1-96 to the north bypass in Ann Arbor, is scheduled for completion in late '78 or early '79

Greenstein's name is on Stein salute

By CRAIG PEICHURA

Canton Township Supervisor Robert Greenstein has been placed in the uncomfortable and ironic position of having his name appear on the mass mailing announcing the endorsements of the 15th District Democratic Party.

The endorsement letter which was mailed to Canton voters, endorses Harold Stein, Anne Bradley and Eugene Daleythe members of the Democratic party who won the Aug. 3 primary.

Myers to set up consumer laws

Canton officials, businessmen and a state consumers advocate will soon put their heads together over the rough draft of a model consumers protection ordinance Canton Trustee Robert Myers has proposed a meeting between township officials, a representative of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, a representative of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, and Linda Joy, director of the Michigan Consumers Council, to draft the model ordinance for Canton and other communities which could vote to adopt it.

Myers said he would present the ordinance's rough draft to township attorney William Sempliner for legal scrutiny and then introduce the document to township board members.

Although Myers hopes to begin the drafting process as soon as possible, the date for the meeting has not yet been sched-

Myers' proposal follows a decision of Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who recently ruled that townships have the power to establish consumer protection agencies with the power to license businesses. The decision overturns a contradictory opinion, delivered by Sempliner more than a year

After the township attorney negated the authority of townships to establish consumer groups, township board members tabled a controversial consumer protection ordinance, drafted 11/2 years ago by Myers and attorney Peter Bundarin, now supervisor candidate on the Republican ticket.

The controversial ordinance had come under heavy fire of Canton businessmen and Chamber of Commerce members, who said the document would add an unnecessary restriction tobusinessmen's activities.

Even Bundarin, who copied the ordinance from a law enacted in Prince George County, Md., now says township officials should reevaluate the proposed law.

Under the controversial consumers protection ordinance, township officials would establish a consumer protection agency, composed of one township board member and four volunteers appointed by the board.

THE AGENCY could conceivably hold power to license all businesses in the township, investigate and hold public hearings on consumer complaints, and, if necessary, seek injunctions against businesses involved in fraudulent or illegal activities. Business licenses would fund the agencies'

But, in the wake of Kelley's opinion, Myers feels township officials need to hear from the business community before establishing a consumer protection agency.

The attorney general did not assess specific working or provisions of the proposed consumer protection ordinance, introduced to township board members about 11/2

"I think there should be input from everyone concerned," Myers said. "Hopefully, we can come out with an ordinance that can benefit consumers and the business community. Maybe we'll use part of this ordinance, or maybe we'll throw the whole 'thing out.'

crat who works within the party system," Bundarin continued. "They rejected his candidacy in the primary. It's not that I'm afraid to meet with Bob (Greenstein). I just strongly believe that the system must be made to work."

Trustee candidate Lynne Goldsmith echoed other candidates' views about the scheduled debate and said "evéryone knows" the Democratic Club, who called for the debate, is composed of Greenstein supporters. The debate, she adds, was scheduled to lend credence to the supervisor's write-in campaign.

"After all, they were defeated in the primary," said trustee candidate Gene Daley. "Anyone can come along and say they're a write-in candidate.'

Members of the Democratic Club had requested WSDP, the student radio station at the Centennial Educational Park to broadcast Friday's debate. But Jeffrey Cardinal, coordinator of the station, said he refused, because the request was submitted on too short a notice.

Editor:

In response to a letter in , which concerned Canton citizens requested candidates to discuss issues other than the same old hackneyed ones. I accept this chal-

On roads-As long as Canton is a township, and it should stay in this status for the present, it does not have the authority resources to pave its roads. Under my administration however. Canton will purchase a road grader to keep our dirt roads at least in a safe passable condition

On doctors and dentists-Without office space in Canton, doctors and dentists cannot set up their practices even if they wanted to. Under my administration, I will actively encourage more capital investments

•On an emergency medical center-Under my plans, an authority will be established by the two townships, Canton and Plymouth, and the City of Plymouth to operate the Canton-Plymouth Metropolitan Police Force. The operating powers of this authority can be expanded to include an emergency medical center at the central police headquarters.

On recreation facilities-The Plymouth Canton School District owns many undeveloped acres of land throughout the township which should be put to immediate recreational use. Canton needs more baseball and football fields close to the different subdivisions, and this property will help. Also, instead of Canton applying for federal fund for a grandiose township hall which we couldn't afford to maintain. funds should be requested to use for recreation centers such as an ice skating rink and a large enclosed field house for community events and a farmers' market.

•On deteriorating sections of Canton-On exterior maintenance inspection ordinance and an occupancy should be applied to all rental units. Further, an occupancy ordinance should be passed on the sale of

•On traffic lights-Canton, with the permission of Wayne County, does have the authority to install traffic lights at intersections where the local community feels they are required. Canton should obtain an agreement with Wayne County that when Canton feels a traffic light is required where the intersection does not meet the county's standards for one, the county will later reimburse the township for a light when the intersection does meet county standards for installation.

Thank you concerned citizens for giving hearings set

Two public hearings have been set by the Plymouth Community School District on its proposed 1976-77 operating budget.

The first hearing will begin at 9 p.m. Monday, Oct. 18, in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High School, 8415 Canton Center Road just south of Jov.

The second hearing will begin at 7.30 p.m. Oct. 25 in the Canton cafeteria Assistant Superintendent for Business Ray Hoedell, at the Plymouth Board of Education building, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth, me this opportunity to present more of my goals for Canton PETER B. BUNDARIN

Go write-in

Oh! How wrong people can be! The result of any primary is not a mandate of the people when there is only around 35 per cent voter turn-out and when the margin is so very close as it was in the Canton primary. I, for one, can speak most personally about this because I was so sure-so very sure-the Greenstein Team was a "shoe-in" that I didn't get out and voteand many of my friends were the same

I may not agree with everything the Team has done, but by and large, this township has turned into one of the most beautiful and in-demand areas in Wayne County. I also now realize that I definitely do not like what the Stein and Bundarin slates have to offer (ever so vaguely). Only in the democratic system of the United States can a person have a second chance so that they don't have to choose the "lesser of two evils.

I found my second chance-the only chance left-to protect my interest in the township-that being to write-in the Greenstein Team. If you consider yourself a responsible voter, then take advantage of the democratic system in not being restricted to choosing the lesser of two evils. Your second and last chance is at hand! Do as I did-call the Greenstein Team Write-In line now, before it is too late

Extra dab of kindness will do

By DARLENE STINSON

The kids and faculty members at Starkweather Elementary School believe there's something a little special about the people in their school.

It's an extra dab of kindness, a "thank you" at the lunch table and a child opening a classroom door for his teacher. It's a cheeful "good morning" at the start of another school day and genuine concern when a pupil falls ill.

It's hard to describe, says John Howe. principal of the school, but a noticeable change has transformed the kids at Starkweather, since a Plymouth Soroptomist Club member first launched her citizenship project in Starkweather's classrooms three years ago.

"It's hard to describe." Mrs. Moore said of her project, which recently placed second internationally at the Soroptimist International Club's convention in Boston. "It's trying to get students to think of others and do for others wherever there's a need without expecting pay.

"You just can't put it in words. You have to see the children carrying a teacher's books or talking to people or holding a door for someone. "By doing these things, we help build a better community. We all have the capacity to be angry and to take and to steal. We all have the capacity to love and hate. But we all have to learn right from wrong and channel our feelings in the right direc-

A RETIRED TEACHER who spent 20 years as a school consultant in mental health for the Wayne County Intermediate School District. Mrs. Moore says she has seen her share of hate and stealing and anger in schools throughout southeastern

As an honorary member of the Plymouth Soroptimist Club, Mrs. Moore recalls pondering the problems of destructive behavior and vandalism in schools at a Soroptimist Club meeting three years

If only children could be taught right from wrong at a young age, she thought, what a better society this could be.

Those thoughts paved the way for the start of Mrs. Moore's citizenship program. She chose Starkweather as a target school ("I don't know why," she says), and began visiting every grade and classroom in the school. She constructed a poem about the "golden keys"- "excuse me," "thank you," "good morning"- to impress upon younger students the need to express concern and kindness to others. She composed stories about boys and girls of every culture who reaped awards through their kindness to others.

With older students, Mrs. Moore talked about patriotism and the country's flag and Constitution. Teachers encouraged students to write essays about Mrs. Moore's words and distributed golden keys made of paper to students who did good deeds.

MRS. MOORE visited each classroom three or four times a year to reinforce her work, and assemblies were held at the end of the school year to honor students with the most "golden keys." Mrs. Moore is about to begin the program's third year. "It's just the atmosphere around here. said Howe. "It's not what it used to be and I'm sure this program helped. It's improved, as these children have been exposed to the 'golden keys.' In short, the program's been a huge success.

'The child comes to us as a whole person," Howe continued. "You must first deal with his attitude, and then the learning comes.

Howe said Starkweather, like all schools. has had its bouts with vandalism. But such incidents, he adds, have never been fewer than during the last three years.

For Mrs. Moore, the citizenship program is marked with strings of personal awards and a sense of accomplishment. Wherever she goes in Plymouth: to the dime store, to the grocery store or a leisurely stroll through Kellogg Park, she is greeted with the friendly, eager recognition of Starkweather pupils, who ask her to become a permanent fixture in Starkweather School.

"I think the kids are really growing," she says with a smile. "Everytime they see me, they say, 'Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Moore.' It's really been rewarding. I've had a lot of fun, I know.

Mrs. Alta F. Moore (right) of the Soroptomist Club stands with her citizenship award with John Howe, Starkweather principal, and Helen Kelley, a first grade teacher at the school. (Staff photo)

Agreement averts S'craft strike

By TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College and Faculty Forum negotiators were expected by this weekend to have finished hammering out a new two-year collective bargaining agreement amid signs of dissension on both the board of trustees and in the faculty ranks.

Ratification votes are expected to be held the last week of October, according to a college spokesman, with the faculty ratifying first.

A strike was avoided Monday when the faculty voted last Friday to accept the board's final offer on an economic pack-

THERE WERE confused indications of how much the economic package will be worth to the faculty.

Forum President Richard Arlen said it would be worth three per cent the first year and 4.5 per cent the second.

A board source, however, put the actual cost in the four to 5.5 per cent range. The reason is that fringe benefits will increase by about one per cent as base pay increas-

These figures all exclude "increments -the annual seniority increases teachers get. Increments are a minor factor at Schoolcraft, though, where 72 per cent of the full time faculty are at the top of the 11-step pay scale due to seniority and will get no further senority increments

CURRENTLY, Schoolcraft instructors get these base salaries for a 36-week work

Librarians and counselors get the base pay plus 25 per cent because they work proportionately more weeks during the

THE FACULTY accepted the board's final offer Friday by a margin of less than 112 votes-73.2 in favor to 71.8 opposed. Reason for the fractional votes is that part-time instructors are entitled to less than a full vote. With 162 full time and some 170 part-time instructors in the bargaining unit, it was clear that vast numbers of union members failed to vote.

Arlen called it the closest vote he has seen in his seven years of negotiating.

AT LEAST TWO members of the board of trustees privately indicated to the Observer they were dissatisfied with the economic package, and one threatened to vote

That board member thought the settlement too expensive in terms of what the financially-strapped community college has

The college raised tuition this year and is considering further (ees increases, among other options, to balance the budget because of a drop in credit hours being taken by students.

The board was further bothered by indications that the Faculty Forum negotiating team knew in advance how far the board was willing to go. Source of the continuous "leaks" was believed to be either someone close to the president's office or. more likely, another member of the board.

THE COLLEGE administration declined to criticize the Faculty Forum for telling students to call the college last Monday to see if classes were being held.

Conceivably, the college switchboard operator could have received 10,000 telephone calls. But an announcement over radio station WJR early Monday that classes would be held apparently stopped some calls

Switchboard operator Jean Wilson said she received "hundreds of calls" Monday and that the situation was "chaotic" from 7 a.m., when she started work, until 10:30 The calls began coming in at 5 a.m., before the switchboard was open, and were fielded by a public safety officer. A printed announcement given by faculty members urged students to call seven of the eight board members and urge a resolution of differences. Only board vice-chairperson Rosina Raymond's name was unlisted in the Oct. 7 faculty circular. One trustee on the list said he received calls between 4 and 5 a.m. one day.

THE ADMINISTRATION did, however. publicly rebuke the Forum for telling students the college was "guilty" of unfair labor practices.

President C. Nelson Grote said in a bulletin to students that the board had only been "accused" of Lad faith bargaining. adding: "The Faculty Forum has sat as a . . The truth of the matjudge and jury. ter is none of the charges have been heard by the Michigan Employee Relations Com-

"Of more serious concern is the appropriateness of a faculty member reading inflammatory and misleading statements in the classroom.

Beating a dead chicken!

going to let you hear a few of them.

Inevitably, now that the festivities have finished, plans are being made for the next annual chicken race

By PATRICK TOUHEY

The Great Chicken Race is over! Long live the Great Chicken Race!

The echoes from the cannon shot that signaled the beginning of Plymouth's first Fowl Festival have not yet faded, and at the risk of beating a dead chicken, we are

CONCEIVED IN craziness, carried out in craziness, it looks like the race will be

For example, Fred Yockey, Plymouth city manager, received a call Tuesday morning from a radio station in Hawaii (WKCMR).

(WKGMB).

They thought the race was this coming Sunday and wanted to find out about sending over their entry. When Yockey told them that it was too late, they were very disappointed.

However, they said that if they were notified when the next race was going to take place, they would be sure to have an entry registered in time.

On the local front, the intense rivalry that was generated among various businesses has a long way to go before (you should pardon the expression) the hatchets are burried.

The day after the race, Claude Cornell of the National Bank of Detroit sent a telegram to Chuck Heidt of the First National Bank, in which a challenge was issued for next year.

And, he sent it collect.

ON THE SERIOUS side, those who were responsible for the event are very pleased with the way everything turned out.

"I am heartened by the community spirit that was demonstrated both prior to and during the event." said Joan Gerigk, chairwoman of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce retail committee which sponsored the festival. "I can't remember anything that brought so many people together for so much fun.

"And don't forget." she added. "this was all done step by step. We had no idea what was going to happen on the actual day of

There are, however, a few changes that the Chamber would like to make for the "Well, we really haven't had very much time to sit down and go over everything," said Janet Curlee, executive secretary for the Chamber. "but just off the top of my head. I would have to say that we would make arrangements for better crowd control, and provide better organization for contestants in the waiting area. And now that we have some idea of the number of people. I think a larger parade route would be desirable."

She also indicated that the Chamber would make application for an official parade permit next year.

POLICE CHIEF Tim Ford shared the Chamber's concerns for changes

"For a first effort, this went fine," he said, "but, if I had known what to expect. I would have been able to do things a little differently.

"I would have liked to keep the street free of people, and I would have blocked the street off a block farther in each direction to keep traffic congestion at a minimum."

The Chamber will use the money from the race to advertise and promote retail businesses in the Plymouth community

WE WANT

GOVERNMENT

He's running on a rare blend of common sense, intelligence and good judgement — tested in six years as one of Michigan's most respected State Senators.

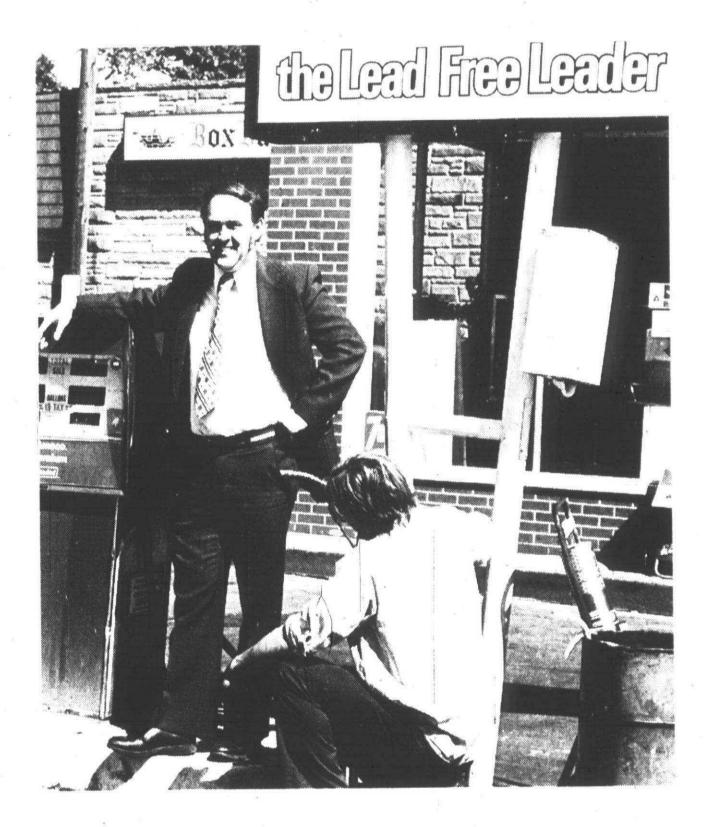

His opponent, Ed Pierce, advocates a program Carl calls "Promise Everybody Everything," and which cannot be financed without massive new taxation.

THE PURSELL PROGRAM DEMANDS EXCELLENCE AND EFFICIENCY, WITH COMPASSION FOR REAL PRIORITIES, BUT A TOUGH-MINDED APPROACH TO SPENDING AND TAXES.

And a commitment to be pastes its first dollar on the wall. Chances are remote that owner Joe Nahra will start business today as originally planned due to a restraining order issued by Wayne County Circuit Judge Thomas Roumell on Aug. 20.

Charles Finlan, whose insurance agency is located directly east of Nahra's restaurant, filed the lawsuit challenging the adequacy of parking spaces available for Napoleon's Restaurant.

Finlan is worried that the opening of the new restaurant will fill both his own personal lot and the Wiedman Lot, which accompanying businesses feel is already NAHRA CONTENDS that his diner won't open until late afternoon, thus eliminating any possible parking conflicts with Finlan and the other businesses. A meeting was held on Oct. 6 where both parties attempted to work out a compromise, but it ended in a standstill.

"We leveled with one another on a friendly basis," said George Bowles, one of Finlan's attorneys. "The meeting was nothing more than an informal discussion between lawyers. Some healthy ideas were exchanged, but nothing new came up.'

from a different light. "It was a complete waste of time. We tried to sit down with Finlan and work something out, but he was unwilling to cooperate.

"We have to overcome this thing and I'm trying to do it without going to court." added Nahra. "We (Finlan and Nahra) are going to be neighbors so why not settle this in a neighborly fashion? We've tried, but to no avail."

NAHRA ADMITTED that he is at a loss for alternatives except to go through the courts. He doesn't want the notoriety of being involved in a court hassle, nor the fees that go along with it.

But the courts appear to be the only solution left for the owner, who has hired employees, and is readying them for opening day. "One thing slows down another," Nahra said. "The Board of Health is waiting until we're officially set to open the doors and we've got to get a liquor's li-

Local LWV is opposing tax limit

An increase in local taxation is one of the fallouts likely to result if voters statewide approve Proposal C on the Nov. 2 general election ballot.

That word of caution was issued this week by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi when it come out and urged residents to vote against Proposal C.

THE MAIN POINTS of Proposal C are as follows

 Limit all state taxes and spending to 8.3 per cent of the combined personal income of Michigan

• Provide for refund of excess revenue to individual taxpayers

· Prohibit the state from adopting or expanding local programs without full state funding

· Prohibit local governments from increasing existing taxes without voter approval. • The League is opposed to Proposal C. and offers as some of the reasons for a

"no" vote because: · The measure would shift burden of taxation to local level where millage battles will have to be fought on a continued

• Tax credits now enjoyed by senior citizens, the blind, farmers, and homeowners will be in jeopardy.

The proposal runs counter to recent efforts to achieve equity in the state's tax structure and fiscal responsibility.

THE PROPOSAL is to establish a constiutional limit on the total amount of taxes which may be levied by the legislature in any fiscal year. If approved, the legislature would not be permitted to imposes taxes of any kind which, together with all other revenues of the state (except for federal aid) would total more than 8.3 per cent of the personal income of Michigan residents from the previous fiscal year.

The proposal would allow this limit to be exceeded at the governor's request by having the legislature declare an emergency by a two-thirds vote of the House and Sen-

The proposal also would prevent the state from beginning any new program or increasing the level of any existing service unless a state appropriation is made and disbursed.

Units of local government also are prohibited from increasing the "rate or base of existing taxes beyond levels authorized' without a vote of the people.

THE LEAGUE opposes the measure because it contradicts its position that the legislature should have broad and fundamental taxing power, free of constitutional restrictions.

This proposal would further limit the ability of the elected representatives of the people in their responsibility to appropriate revenue to support programs they be lieve appropriate for the citizens of the state." points out Annalee Mathes, League president.

The League also opposes Proposal C because: the limit of 8.3 per cent is "arbitrary and certainly will not stand the test of time;" the definition of "personal income of Michigan" is tied into a report by the U.S. Department of Commerce which may not be valid; and, the "total amount of taxes" isn't sufficiently defined. The proposal's reference to restricting legislative requirements for new programs at the local government level would appear to pose a constant problem of definition, the League maintains.

The entire document seems not to take into account the need for flexibility in both providing services and paying for them.' adds Mrs. Mathes, "It would appear to place undue restrair s on state government at a time when more and more services are being funded by state government, and it does introduce even more rigidity in our constitution which we believe is even now much too burdened with re-

A major concern of the League is that Proposal C. if adopted, would make almost impossible current attempts to provide for a more equitable method of school financ-

Although limiting state taxing powers and spending, the League points out, there would be some necessary expenditures which would be shifted to local governmental units placing a greater burden and strain on local municipalities

NOW, A NATURAL question would be how did these women arrive at their present situation. And in the answer, lies a

About two years ago, the afore-mentioned moms thought it would be a good idea to build a fort for kids to play on at Isbister Elementary. "We were just some mothers trying to think of something we could build to keep the kids busy." said Mrs. Houle. "And we thought a fort would be something we could handle.

So, toward that goal, they purchased $500 worth of railroad ties and got a company in Detroit to donate the 11stinch pipe.

With pipe and ties in hand, they thought they were all ready to begin construction. So, some husbands were recruited to drill 11 minch holes in the wooden ties.

"THEY WORKED outside in the heat and the rain, and they drilled 280 holes, and, believe me, it was tough work." Mrs.

However, after all the holes were finished, and everything was ready to be assembled, a slight miscalculation was discovered. "What we didn't know." stated Mrs. Houle, "was that the inside diameter

THE FIRST, and perhaps the most obvious solution that was suggested was to drill the holes 14 inch bigger. No problem. right? Not so.

After several attempts and several failures, it became apparent that it was going to be impossible to enlarge the existing

"The railroad ties were hard to drill through anyway, and with the holes already there, the drill-bit wouldn't stay straight," Mrs. Houle said.

For a short while it looked like a solution was forthcoming when Harold Gaertner, vocational director for Plymouth School District, volunteered to design and build a special bit.

'We used some surplus material and had both students and teachers working on it." Gaertner said, "But it was a failure; and as of right now, it's back to the drawing board.

Gaertner added that although they were going to design another bit, he was not optimistic about its success.

editorial opinion

Kudos and brickbats

Meetings are mercifully shorter

Three weeks ago an editorial ran in the Canton Observer stating that Canton Township's board meetings would try the patience of Buddhist

The editorial was in response to the two previous meetings which lasted well beyond midnight. The Sept. 14 Canton board meeting lasted until 2:40 a.m.-which had to be a dubious record.

Since that editorial the board members have "cleaned up their act," to use a popular phrase Tuesday night's meeting was over before 9 p.m. and nothing on the agenda was glossed over or hurriedly passed.

So, this editorial is a tip of the hat to the Canton Township board members for turning down the hot air valve. The people of Canton want to participate and attend the public meetings. Thanks for making it possible for people other than in-

STILL ON the subject of public attendance at township meetings, it was discouraging to see the pitiful turnout of citizens and political hopefuls at last week's public hearing on the 1977 budget.

Supervisor candidate Harold Stein has blasted the present administration for spending money "that isn't budgeted for" on the police reserve unit. Stein was not in attendance, though, when the 1977 budget came up for public comment.

Anne Bradley, candidate for treasurer on the Stein slate, also was noticeably absent from the budget hearing. Aside from the current members of the township board, the only politicians in the audience were Bart Berg (Republican candidate for treasurer) and Joyce Willis, write-in candidate for trustee.

The absence of anyone on the Stein slate is hard to justify. We'd like to hear their reasons for staying away from the public hearing.

PEOPLE WHO might quarrel with our editorial positions are urged and invited to write letters to the editor which we run in every edition. However, this response is apparently not enough for box was robbed of all its papers, bludgeoned by a baseball bat or other blunt instrument and dumped in the middle of Canton Center Road. This attack on an inanimate object was followed by anonymous calls stating that the newspaper's editorials were biased.

To the mental giant who beats up on newspaper boxes, we say watch out for the bogeyman. It could be your own reflection, and that has to be frightening.

The high price of litter

The Litter Lobby-those businesses and unions who make money from throwaways-will stoop to nothing in their efforts to block voter approval of Proposal A, which would ban throwaway beverage cans and bottles.

With slick, expensive radio commercials, the Litter Lobby, which calls itself "Committee Against Forced Deposits," is telling folks the prices of pop and beer will soar if Proposal A is passed Nov. 2. The Litter Lobby is wrong for Pop and beer prices will not be raised because of a ban on throwaways. Rather, you would pay a deposit once and get your money back when you return the bottles; or if you buy more beverages, the bottles you return will cover the deposit on the bottles you take out. The Litter Lobby is telling a whopper again by scaring folks with that high price talk.

. The cost of having throwaway cans and bottles is not zero. Smashed bottles on roads harm tires. Broken bottles and rusted cans on treelawns and in parks hurt kids and pets. Litter along rural roads is a hazard to farm implements, truck tires, livestock and crops.

Those costs aren't reflected in the prices of pop and beer, but they are reflected in medical costs. in veterinary costs, in road maintenance costs, in auto owners' costs, in homeowners' costs, in farm-•Litter generates more litter. When slobs throw away a "non-returnable" or "convenience" can or bottle, it weakens everybody's respect for a clean environment.

Having throwaway cans and bottles is a luxury Michigan can no longer afford. By passing Proposal A Nov. 2, we can ban those throwaways. Don't let those expensive commercials about "forced deposits" trick you.

If you, too, are outraged at the Litter Lobby. there are many organizations you can join to fight for passage of Proposal A.

One is a local affiliate of Michigan United Conservation Clubs, which spearheaded the drive to put the proposal on the ballot. It is basically a hunting- and fishing-oriented group.

Another is East Michigan Environmental Action. Council, One Northfield Plaza, Troy. Call Betty Wolfe, volunteer coordinator, at 879-6040.

Observation

A GOOD JOURNALIST

KNOWS WHICH TO USE.

One of the biggest topics of local politicaljournalistic gossip in the past few days has been the feud going on between the editors of the Detroit News and their columnist. TV commentator Lou Gordon.

In recent weeks, they have been arguing with (charitably put) might and mein over the race for the U.S. Senate between Don Riegle and Marv

The News ran a series of news stories critical of Riegle: he allegedly signed his wife's name to their joint tax return and kept the refund until she asked him for it; he was ranked by national columnist Jack Anderson as among the worst members of the Congress, according to a poll of members and staffers; and he supposedly has taken a position in support of busing to integrate schools.

The News then followed these stories up with a strong editorial arguing that these were reasons why Esch should be elected to the Senate.

GORDON replied in a column in the News. where he has a regular slot.

He claimed that the tax return story was cooked up to embarrass Riegle just at election time: that Jack Anderson himself had not conducted the congressional popularity poll himself. and in fact would vote for Riegle if he lived in Michigan; and that Riegle was just as much against busing as anybody else.

Gordon also said some nasty things about the News' editorial ethics, suggesting that the paper consciously was slanting its news coverage of the campaign to correspond to its previously determined editorial views.

The News then replied, to the amazement of many, to Gordon in an editorial of its own. It called him some nasty names and said some disparaging things about his own ethics as a news-

WHAT IS really going on here, aside from a long standing battle between Gordon and the News (which boosts the TV ratings for one and the circulation of the other) is a violation of an old unwritten rule of journalism. Thou shall not comment, in print at least, on the competency or ethics of another journalist.

And what, in turn, is behind this is a serious and troubling problem beginning to affect American journalism.

Ever since its great success in Watergate, our journalism has concentrated increasingly on 'going behind" the facade of public statements. Journalists have started to zero in on private lives of public figures, often without taste or real public service. Did President Ford, while a Congressman, ever play golf as the weekend guest of somebody who was an executive with U.S. Steel? (Can anybody, especially a senior Congressman, really be bought by a golfing weekend?) Did Gov. Carter really fly around Georgia in planes owned by textile companies? (Unless there is evidence that Carter favored inappropriately the textile interests while he was governor, does anybody care?) Gossip has replaced news; fact has become subordinate to rumor; the legitimate needs of public figures for some respect for their privacy has been forgotten.

And then, with no more dirt to pull out on public figures, the press in its ravening need to keep critical, aggressive and fully investigatory now starts criticizing itself in print.

I'M NOT suggesting that the press itself should be off limits to criticism, nor am I suggesting that members of the press should not attack obvious ineptitudes by other press people. What I am saying is that the press runs the great risk, in its current fashionable need for gossip and criticism, of destroying its own credibility with the public. It's like the giant in the fairy tale. He grew so great by devouring his own opponents and felt his appetite so undiminished that he finally began to feed on himself and so died.

SEMTA: Camel, platypus and wombat

On balance, the Michigan Legislature did the right thing in giving the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) power to raise $12.5 million a year toward a rapid transit

But the way the legislature "restructured" the regional transit system's board must make one shudder. If a camel is a horse designed by a committee, then the new SEMTA board is the offspring of a camel, a duck-billed platypus and a

Since the board was established in 1968, the selection system has been fairly rational: The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments picked six members and the governor three.

OAKLAND AND WESTERN Wayne counties, in particular, get a raw deal from the "restructur-

Consider: Detroit gets five members on the new 15-member SEMTA board. All are appointed by the mayor-but not subject to confirmation by the city council. That's poor procedure, but that's what Mayor Coleman A. Young wants.

Oakland County has an executive. But does the Oakland County executive get to appoint the county's three SEMTA board members? No. One is picked by the county board of commissioners and two by SEMCOG. County Executive Dan Murphy thinks the new formula is a snub to Oakland's pioneering work with the executive system, and he's absolutely right. What's sauce for Detroit ought to be sauce for Oakland County, too.

The "restructuring" would have made far more sense had the county executive been given the power of appointment subject to confirmation by the county board.

OAKLAND GETS a bad deal another way. The weirdos in Macomb County have been too provincial to joint SEMCOG. So the legislature actually awarded this provinciality, this civic isolationism, by allowing the Macomb County board to appoint both of Macomb's SEMTA board mem-

But the good guys in Oakland, who have remained loyal to SEMCOG, get kicked in the chops because Oakland County gets to make only one of its SEMTA appointments itself; the other two Oakland seats will be filled through the SEMCOG

That's patently unfair on the face of it. Oakland gets punished, not rewarded, for its regional participation in SEMCOG.

WESTERN WAYNE County gets a bad deal on apportionment.

Detroit, with a population of 1.3 million, gets five SEMTA board seats. The rest of Wayne County, with a population of 1.2 million, gets only three SEMTA board seats.

In case you're weak on math, it figures out to one SEMTA board seat for every 260,000 Detroiters and one for every 400,000 suburban Wayne County residents. "One person, one vote"? Not when it comes to building a multi-billion dollar rapid transit system! But perhaps western Wayne should be thankful for small favors. Right now those 1.2 million suburbanites have absolutely no one on the board, and haven't in two years. AFL-CIO President William Marshall, of Taylor, had to quit two years ago. Gov. Milliken dawdled for more than a year, then appointed ad man Thomas B. Adams of Bloomfield Hills to fill the vacancy. Adams resigned without ever having attended a meeting. Milliken dawdled another year and then filled the post with Dwight Havens-who happens to be

The Stroller ... A GOP shocker

By W. W. EDGAR

There was a glint in the pollstef's eye when he asked: "For whom are you going to vote—Gerald Ford or Jimmy Carter?"

The Stroller had to smile. If the pollster only had realized he was born and raised in Pennsylvania, he never would have asked the question.

Back in the days when The Stroller was just graduating from knee breeches into long pants and getting his first good look at the political picture he was taught to vote for the Grand Old Party. To do otherwise would have been looked upon as a mortal sin.

AS A MATTER OF fact, in those days a Democrat was looked upon as a sort of museum piece. They were few and far between. In our little town of Catasauqua nestled in the foothills of the Blue Mountains there was only one registered Democrat.

He was an elderly, well-to-do coal dealer named George B. F. Deily. The very mention of his name causes The Stroller to recall one of the most humorous moments of a presidential election he ever has known.

It was back in 1916 when Charles Evans Hughes, the famed be-whiskered gent, ran against Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic incumbent.

IT WAS A RATHER hectic campaign in the days of World War I. Wilson was running on the theory that he could get us out of the war. And Hughes, naturally, was campaigning against Wilson—and war.

There were many political rallies with the traditional bon-fires and torch light parades. But strangely, there was none in support of Wilson in our little town.

In those days there was little of the voter apathy we have today, and while The Stroller was not yet old enough to vote he did his part by helping to get out the vote. And our little town had one of its best turnouts.

Came election day and the town was enthused over the possibility that the Republicans would win. All through the day there was great glee as reports come in that the vote was heavy and that the Republicans appeared to have a wide edge.

Long after the polls closed, no one had retired. The townspeople were awaiting the final word. There was no radio or television in those days; all we had were telegraphic reports.

About midnight, came word that Hughes apparently had won and the Republicans again would have control of the White House.

This news flash was all that was needed. In short order the Catasauqua Band was on hand, ready to march on a moment's notice.

It was no time until the torches were lit, and the signal was given to parade.

WHERE TO?

There was only one destination-- down to George Deily's home to serenade him. It was a happy group that gatherd on the old gent's porch, screaming and yelling of the victory. All the old gent did was pull down the curtains.

It was a great moment. But you can imagine the shock when the word came the next morning that Wilson had made a strong finish and was re-elected.

There was gloom in our town. Heads were shaking in surprise all around the regular meeting places. And when our young fellows gathered that evening there was little conversation—only the aggravating thoughts of the Republican defeat.

As darkness fell, there came a sound of music far down on our front street. It was marching music. As the sounds became clearer, there was no mistaking that it was a parade.

Sure enough. When the band came in sight, there was a lone marcher with a lighted torch and broad smile.

It was George B.F. Deily, the town's lone Democrat. What a time he was having getting even and celebrating the Democratic victory.

No presidential race ever will have the same effect on The Stroller.

It was the first time he was caught in a political defeat. Things have changed in Pennsylvania since those days. But the memory of Hughes's defeat and the Democratic victory he will remember always.

We are concerned and disappointed in the two city commissioners we endorsed who apparently have no idea what it means to grow old and what it means to need housing in the downtown area. Older people without transportation and many who soon will be unable to drive could enjoy their last few years of life in fellowship, band concerts, Fall Festival activities and be in the center of all their needs instead of living out in a pasture, forgotten. Women educators sorority marks international week

This week, Oct. 10-17, marks the celebration of the first International Alpha Delta Kappa Week.

Members of Plymouth Beta Xi are paying special tribute to ADK, international honorary and professional sorority of woman educators, by welcoming new staff members of the three new Plymouth schools, the mayor's proclamation of ADK week and a letter of recogniton to State Sen. Carl Pursell for his support of education, according to Sarah Haas, chapter president.

In a span of less than 30 years, Alpha Delta Kappa has grown to more than 60,000 members in all 50 states. The local chapter, one of Michigan's 68 active chapters, includes 25 members.

They are among the state's 1,800 Alpha Delta Kappans dedicated to a program of altruism and professionalism in edu-

Chapter Beta Xi members annually provide the means for financing scholarships for worthy area students and other altruistic and professional services for the enrichment of both school and community

MEMBERSHIP in ADK is limited to 10 per cent of the women teachers in any district. To be eligible for membership, a teacher must have taught at least three years and be recommended by an active Alpha Delta Kappan.

The local chapter was founded in 1966 with Lois Jensen as its first president.

Charter members were Adena Rece, Marguerite Ross, Jean Ross, Marion Breed, Betty Morrison, Myrtle Reed, Lee Terry and Terry Secord.

Among its projects have been the tutoring of Detroit House of Corrections Women's Division prisoners and Christmas gifts for the inmates' children; aiding the exchange student program with a gratuity to a student; and helping the Plymouth Youth Symphony.

They have taken the senior citizens at Tonquish Creek Manor under their wing-supplying taxi service, magazine subscriptions and sponsoring parties.

They also have supported the diabetic organization and the Kidney Foundation.

Flu vaccine distribution here awaits study

Distribution of swine flue vaccine to residents of Wayne County will await thorough resolution of any questions raised by the deaths by heart attack of three elderly persons who received the vaccine in Pitts-

Larry Lash, tri-county health departments spokesman, said plans for clinics in the area are continuing "but health officials will not distribute any swine flu vaccine until the Pennsylvania situation is thoroughly resolved.

He said such information was anticipated by Oct. 18, when clinics begin operating in Wayne County. The first in this suburban area is scheduled Oct. 20.

Lash, however, said health departments here were inclined to discount the suggestion that the deaths were linked to the vaccine injections, and stated that clinics under way in Oakland County are not being discontinued.

All persons in either the high risk group or in the general population group who are allergic to eggs, chickens or chicken feathers should consult their physicians before receiving swine flu shots.

Clinics for the general population will open in November in Livonia, Plymouth, Westland, Wayne, Garden City, Canton and Redford Township.

DR. THOMAS C. SHOPE, associate director of infectious disease at Children's Hospital, has stated that "the swine flu vaccine is as safe as others in common use, such as measles, mumps and polio."

"Since the virus used to make the vaccine has been killed, no one will get the flu from taking the vaccine."

He noted that after receiving the vaccine, some may experience slight fevers within 24 hours, and some swelling, redness and tenderness in the arm.

"Reactions to the swine flu vaccine will not be more severe than any other vaccines in common use." he said. The shots given at public clinics will be practically painless. A relatively new development, the jet injector, will be used extensively to administer the shots

My dears, you were simply no where if you weren't seen at the races on Sunday. smart set was all , appropriately costumed of course, in whatever the creme de la creme deemed suitable for the social event of the fall season

While yellow feathers and red combs were the really in attire. T-shirts with chokingly chicken slogans seemed to outnumber paper feathers or feather feathers by 2-1. Tres chick (pun intended) were the inventive souls who eleverly managed to weave an egg or two into their garb.

Preceeding the pomp of the opening parade. Judge Dunbar Davis granted a television interview, debonair Don Bidwell was in the municipal parking lot madness giving a pep talk to his two surviving contestants, and the Bob Whittaker family jockeyed for good spectator positions near the race course.

Cluck Kent was a dream in stocking feet and muscles, while Cliff McClumpha chose a natty after church mode of brown and blue The Lone Plucker was resplendent in white and pneumonia, and Michael Moon accessorized his costume with an "Unfair to jumping frogs" placard. A large number of the spectators were sheepish grins early on, which they removed as they discovered more and more of their compatridts had been lured to Kellog Park by the Fowl Foolishness

Mac Pierce and Charlie Truax were there to root for their favorite chicken, as was Tom Workman who sported a snappy tan leather jacket. Jean Schultheiss was among the T-shirted lovelies, last seen scouting a stray contestant just before the

Kay and Don Brooke jetted in from Con-

Chuck Heidt was simply darling in green and white accessorized by a bevy of pompon girls, and the gents from Lents were but dreamy in pale green. Really smashing was John Close in World War I khaki complete with riding crop and scars.

Bill Hall, Don Carlson, Nancy Sharp. Joan Palmer, Elaine Kirchgatter, chose to appear in more conservative attire than some, but they all wore "Can this be for real?" expressions on their faces.

One of the happiest sights was Bill Moon wearing nairy a feather or a crown, but the glorious glow of good health!

The Box Bar was where the elite went to eat, but we are unable to report on the final ceremonies in the winners circle because the emotion of the moment was too overwhelming for accurate reporting.

Really, dear readers, it was all just too much . . • our little ole Chamber of Commerce really outdid themselves with a class bash that will long be remembered by area fowl fanciers.

Marjorie and Bill Ackerman hosted a delightful post football party Saturday night following the UM-MSU game. Jean and Bob Bacheldor were there still aglow following son Paul's marriage to Lynda Yorch the previous evening. Jean and John Ryder, Jackie and Harv Troutman chatted with Russ and Sue Reid as they sampled scrumptious hors d'oeuvres.

Among the large crowd in the Ackermans charming living room were The Clint Cunninghams, the Robert Coopers. the Richard Lundbergs, and the Ralph Lorenzes. Some of the lucky guests who gathered in the dining room later in the evening to sample some of Marge's Mexican soup were Nita and Jerry Brown, Bea and John Spruhan, Nancy and Gearge Johnson, and Sally and Marc Arthur. 'Twas a warm and cordial evening engineered by a pair

Churches can help fight crime

By MARGARET MILLER

An inner-city clergyman, who not only thinks the church can do something about urban crime but also has started to show the way, will make a guest visit Sunday, Oct. 17, to the Livonia Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

The Rev. William Hass of Livonia Christian Church and Brother Lamar Clark of United Christian Church of Detroit go over plans for their pulpit exchange. (Staff photo)

Brother Lamar Clark, senior minister of United Christian Church at Sixteenth and Forest in Detroit will preach at the 11 a.m. service for the Livonia congregation that worships at 36075 Seven Mile.

He also is scheduled to speak at a men's breakfast at 8 a.m. and teach a 9:30 a.m. Sunday School class befor getting to the pulpit. The Rev. William Hass, local pastor, will do the honors in the Detroit

Brother Clark's sermon title will be "An Unusual Question," taken from the prophet Ezekiel's words "Can these bones live?," and it's a safe bet he'll bring in some ideas gleaned during two years in the Detroit church.

In that time, while adding some 175 new adult members to his congregation, he's made an impact on his neighborhood with programs that bear titles like Pathfinder Project, Founding Fathers, Loudmouth and Pastors on Patrol, the latter two still in the organizational stages.

"THE CRIME THING is a difficult matter." he said

"To do something about it takes resources and committed people-people willing to stay in the area, at least for a while, to let their interest be known.

'You have to realize that area is affected not only by the white flight to the suburbs but also a black flight, the more affluent moving to the edges of the city.

Brother Clark added he feels strongly the suburban church has "an obligation in mission to the urban church.

"Especially since most church people came from the urban churches," he said, "it seems a real tragedy that the suburban churches have severed themselves from

"In the suburban churches are not only the money but the experience, the brain power and the young people. They could give physical assistance to the churches left in the inner city.

THIS MINISTER met crime in his church's area last summer with Pathfinder, a recreation program for some 60 kids in the immediate area of the building. Partially funded by the denomination, the program had enough effect on the neighborhood to bring about a definite reduction in vandalism

More important, Brother Clark thought. it developed some interest and pride in the church on the part of some of the young who live in its shadow

He hopes next to add another member to the church staff to some street counseling. It's financing that kind of church work that he feels could be a concern of more suburban churches.

In the beginning stages are more pro-

"I have a couple of men gung-ho on setting up Founding Fathers," he said. "We'll have a group of adult men ready to work with kids in the area, getting into things like little league and the sports activities you find in the suburbs.

Loudmouth, he went on, is the catch name for a telephone system he hopes to

"It would be a number well publicized," he said. "that people could use to let the police know about things going on in the neighborhood

"Part of the problem is that they have been afraid to give this information for fear of reprisal; this number would let them help without identifying themselves.'

PASTORS ON PATROL is projected as an organization of westside ministers taking turns riding around in radio-equipped campers through areas where there are large numbers of crimes

'Our presence there could help," Brother Clark believes. "We have some ministers ready to take part, and as plans get settled there will be more.

While talking of urban and suburban churches, Brother Clark mentioned that a few years ago, while serving as minister to a white congregation in Connecticut, he persuaded his parishioners to sell property at the edge of town and return to its central city ministry.

It worked out well, for that congregation, he said. So did his unusual ministry there but he said he himself ended that after two years

What I was doing was giving to a white congregation what I should have been giving to my black brothers." he explained.

Carol Patterson shows some of the craft items she has been collecting for the Oct. 15 auction at St. Matthew church of Livonia. (Staff photo)

St. Matthew fair turns into auction

A Friday auction and luncheon will replace a Saturday fair in the annual craft event that has become familiar at St. Matthew United Methodist Church of Livonia.

The auction is scheduled Friday, Oct. 15. with previewing at 11 a.m., lunch at noon and sales beginning at 1 p.m.

All items will be handcrafted, with smaller ones pre-priced and larger ones up for auction. Plants and baked goods also will

Lunch tickets should be ordered before Friday by calling the office of the church. located at 30900 Six Mile, or from Donna Anagnostou, 14125 Cranston. The cost is $2. The event represents a change from the craft fair in which an assortment of artists demonstrate and sell their work. "But many of the same 'crafty' people will be there, and the auction sale promises some good bargains in handmade items for the smart shopper," said a church spokesman.

Those interested in attending may reach St. Matthew from either Merriman or Middle Belt roads despite the Six Mile construction work

Joe Williams will appear with the Count Basie orchestra at the Schoolcraft College Harvest Dance in the Plymouth Hilton Inn Ballroom, Oct. 17.

Joe Williams to sing with Basie orchestra

When the Count Basie Orchestra plays for the Schoolcraft College Harvest Dance, it will bring with it two outstanding jazz favorites who will set your toes to tapping and your firgers to snapping.

Vocalist Joe Williams and drummer Butch Miles will headline with the Basie 18-piece orchestra at the Harvest Dance set for 8 p.m. Sunday. Oct. 17 in the Plymouth Hilton Inn Ballroom. The dance kicks off the Schoolcraft College Cultural and Public Affairs Series.

Williams, whose road fame is paved with tunes introduced while singing with the Basie band from 1954 to 1961, has cancelled his own successful tours to head up Basie's band until the "chief" is adequately recovered from a mild heart attack which he suffered last month. Nat Pierce will fill in at the piano so that fans will miss only the shining Basie personality. Local jazz buffs also will have the opportunity to hear Basie's current drummer, Butch Miles.

Miles is originally from Ann Arbor and began his very successful career driving the Austin-Moro Band in its early days. Butch joined the Basie band about 112 years ago, after touring several years with Mel Torme. Back in the driver's seat of a big band. Butch has received ovations from audiences both here and abroad.

Tickets at $6 each are on sale in advance at the Schoolcraft College Bookstore, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia and at the Plymouth Hilton Inn lobby desk at 14707 Northville Road (at Five Mile) in Plymouth. For information, phone Midge Ellis at 591-6400, ext. 368.

Our Indian Summers are filled with good times from the good old days.

Now's the time to stroll to stately homes and cozy shops at Greenfield Village, where America's past is thick as autumn

It's quiet, unrushed, now. And although summer's over, our antique train still puffs its way to Suwanee Park, where the magic of the penny arcade and old-time carousel awaits kids of all ages. On weekends, our sternwheeler gracefully chugs around Suwanee Lagoon.

Friendly craftsmen are still at work down at the Crafts Center. Should the weather turn, Henry Ford Museum is just next door, where you'll enjoy endless galleries of memorabilia - plus the special Bicentennial exhibition, "The Struggle and The Glory."

There's something for the whole family to see and do.

Playwright Leslie Lee will attend the Bonstelle Theatre's production of his critically acclaimed drama, "The First Breeze of Summer," Martin Molson, director of Black Theatre at Wayne State University, has announced.

"The First Breeze of Summer," which inaugurates the season's Bonstelle Theatre series, opens Oct. 15 and runs through Oct. 24. Performances of this domestic drama, which was first produced with great success at the St. Mark's Theatre in New York, are Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. with matinees on Sunday at 2:30.

New York Post critic Joseph Mancini called "The First Breeze of Summer" a play which begins by enticing smiles from the audience and ends by summoning tears.

Set in the home of a black, middleclass family during a hot summer weekend, playwright Lee examines the relationships among three generations, each wrestling with its own particular problems. Pivotal to the action is 'Gremmar," kindly matriarch of this close-knit family. As lights dim and spots shift, her past and present interweave to ultimately shape the lives of all, especially her beloved grandson.

Reserved seats are $3 on sale at the Wayne State University Box Office, Hilberry Theatre (Cass and Hancock), Detroit 48202. Discounts are available. For telephone reservations, call 577-

Rocks stop RU rally for 9th cage victory

By DENNIS O'CONNOR Sports Editor

The end of the first round of Suburban Eight League girls basketball action occurred Tuesday night, as the Plymouth Salem Rocks remained undefeated with a 53-50 victory over rival Redford Union at the Panthers' gym.

The Rocks overall record is 9-0 for the season and 7-0 in the conference. Salem stands alone in first place of the Sub-8. as its chances for a second consecutive title look stronger with each game.

Redford Union, the Rocks closest contender last season, has lost only two games all year and gave the Rocks its toughest competition since the opening con-

"I'm really glad we had a game with more pressure." said Salem coach Debbie Hatcher. "It was a good learning experience for our girls.

"We needed a game like this." Redford Union coach Ken Dersey complimented his squad's performance against a taller and more experienced Salem

I'm proud of the way our girls played. It was a good game. We are a young team with only one senior. Most of our players are from the junior varsity (of last year)," he said. "SALEM CONTROLLED THE boards and kept its cool-that's what its all about." The Rocks might have kept their cool in the end, but not after the Panthers had battled back from a 16 point defecit early in the third quarter.

The Rocks held a convincing 29-19 lead at halftime and came out to score the first six points of the third quarter.

Redford Union patiently dwindled that margin to seven 41-34, after the third period of play when Salem ran into foul

The Panthers continued to go to the charity line early in the fourth period. Redford also began to give full court pressure to the Rocks, causing numerous turnovers.

Redford cut the Plymouth lead to three. 37-34, with five minutes left in the game, but the Rocks came back with four free throws to build the lead back to seven. The Panthers again cut the marin to three, 51-48, with only 2 20 left in the con-

The key in the ball game was Salem's overall height, which gave the Rocks two or three extra shots at the basket all night.

The Rocks were led by Doris Hoelscher. who came off the bench to score 12. Peggy Moore added 10. while Goodrich and Debbie Pitera contributed eight each.

"Redford Union is our biggest rival and I'm glad we got this win under our belts on their floor." Hatcher said.

Salem gridders ready for battle

After Saturday night's big victory against Trenton, the Plymouth Salem football team has another crucial test in front

The Rocks must face undefeated and state-ranked Dearborn Edsel Ford this Friday afternoon at the Thunderbird's field. Starting time for the contest is 3:30

The upset victory of the Rocks against Trenton was probably a surprise to everyone-expect for the team itself.

The Trojans were coming off their first loss since the 1974 season the week before. But the Rocks extended that string of defeats for another week.

While the Rocks are enjoying this victory, they can't spend time resting on their laurels as Edsel Ford looms in front of

"I still think they (Trenton) are as good a football team as any. Unless these two losses hurt them (mentally). I wouldn't be surprised to see them go undefeated the rest of the season.

'Everyone who saw Trenton didn't think too much, but they are good "No one wants to give us credit for beat

Saturday ends cage registration

Saturday marks the final day of registration for all boys and girls interested in competing in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball season this winter.

All players, grades 3-10, should come with one parent and the $7.50 registration fee to West Middle School from 9 a.m. to 2

West Middle School is located on the corner of Sheldon and Ann Arbor Trail. All players who sign up in the league will play at least one quarter of each game according to league rules.

Games are played each Saturday beginning Oct. 25 and lasting until March 5. Each team also holds one practice weekly. This is the 13th season of junior basketball in Plymouth and Canton. The professional football. This same unpredictablity is quickly spreading to Friday nights at the high school level, especially in the play of the Suburban Eight League so far this season. Looking at the standings this week, nothing seems strange. Everything is in balance. There are two undefeated teams on top, and two winless squads on the bottom. But who ever would have expected Belleville to be one of those undefeated teams? And better yet, who ever would have believed that Trenton, last year's defending champuons, would be 1-2 and virtually out of the race after three weeks? Everything is balance now, but after one of two more weeks, a big shake up will

AND THE KEY TO the big shake up is this Friday's battle between the Plymouth Salem Rocks and state-rated Dearborn

Edsel Ford. Edsel is the other undefeated team on top of the league, while the Rocks remain one game back after last week's victory over Trenton

If the Rocks play the kind of football they demonstrated Saturday against Trenton, they can pull off yet another upset against Edsel Ford.

If the Rocks falter, Edsel could breeze the rest of the way.

A Salem victory not only gives the Rocks and Edsel one loss each, but Belleville has to face an upset-minded Bentley squad at the Bulldogs homecoming in Livonia on Friday.

And don't forget a 2-1 Dearborn team who has to face a frustrated Trenton squad tomorrow.

An even bigger shake up may occur after this Friday. Belleville still faces Trenton and Edsel Ford, while Dearborn squares off with Salem and Edsel Ford

The conference is so even this season that fans can watch for all the teams to knock off each other.

If the Rocks pull off another upset. watch for the Sub-8 champion to win the title with one loss or share the crown with two defeats

THIS WEEK'S GAMES:

Last week I went against the Rocks and they proved me wrong with the unexpected upset of Trenton

The way Salem overwhelmed the Trojans, it was hard to believe it was the same ballclub that lost to Belleville two weeks earlier.

I feel that the Rocks have put it all together now and can pull off yet another upset against Edsel Ford. But this will only happen if the Rocks play like they did against Trenton. Salem by 6.

THE PLYMOUTH CANTON Chiefs are coming off a disasterous game against the overwhelming Farmington Harrison

Things should go a lot smoother this week at Walled Lake Western, as the Chiefs have beaten the Warriors the past

But after the tough showing. Walled Lake gave Mott last week, the game will be closer than I had anticipated seven days ago. Canton by 4.

Harrison dunks Chiefs

The Plymouth Canton girls' swim team lost a heartbreaking Western Six League meet to Farmington Harrison Thursday afternoon at the Farmington pool.

The Chiefs were victims of six new girls on the Hawks team that coach Ann Mas-sey and her crew weren't expecting

One of these new swimmers on the Harrison squad was an excellent breast stroker. who placed first in that event to push the Hawks toward the victory.

Harrison and Canton went into the final two events tied at 79-79, but losses in the 100 breast and 400 free relay cost the Chiefs the meet

Massey. "They (the Chiefs) swam their hearts out. You couldn't ask for anything "It was an excellent meet'

"This one was a heartbreaker." said

Canton's record slips to 2-3 overall and 0-2 in the conference.

The Chiefs depth was the factor that made the meet so close. The Hawks won a lot of individual events, but Canton placed many swimmers in the second, third and fourth places.

The 200 yard medley relay combination of Cindy Shelanskey. Sue Knight. Annette Piethe and Tina DeWalt won the first event of the afternoon with a 2:15.1 clock-

Jane Anderson won both sprint races with first place times in the 50 and 100 free style.

The Chiefs' divers performed at their best despite second and third place finishes. Wendy Gray and Jamie Zuverink totaled 152.6 and 130.0 points repectively for career bests.

Shelanskey placed second in both the 200 individual medley and 100 back races. Annette Piethe and Sue Kr.ight were second in the 100 butterfly and breast repectively. Knight swam this meet with an injury to her back Farmington High shed its traditional bridesmaid role Tuesday afternoon at the 13th Annual Redford Union Invitional cross country meet to capture the team championship among a field of 24 entries.

The Falcons accumulated a total of 99 points, with Harold Eutial leading the charge by finishing fourth in 16:02. He was supported by Stu Glatfelter (12th-16:20), and Hugh Leidlein (13th-16:22).

Medalist honors in the event went to Livonía Churchill's Vic Wietecha, who covered the course at Cass Benton in 15:49. Wietecha edged Plymouth Salem's Scott Kleam by two seconds as Kleam hung on to the runner's-up spot in 15:51. Schoolcraft Invitional winner Ted Unold of Westland John Glenn took third place in 15:54.

For Kleam it was the second consecutive runnerup finish in four days. He placed second at the Wayne Memorial Invitional Saturday, with an incredible 14:51 clocking over that three-mile course.

Garden City West's Mark Boyd cruised home in fifth place. Churchill's Tobin Jones paced the distance in 16:05 for sixth. -Livonia Stevenson's Bill Wilkin followed close behind for seventh place in 16:08. Wilkin was the lead runner for the Spartans Rounding out the top ten were Ken Morris of Trenton (16:11) Mike Mayes of Walled Lake Western (16:12), and Mark Evans of Farmington Harrison (16:14).

The consensus among coaches and meet officials centered around the climate in which the race was run. Humid weather and temperatures in the mid 70's were obviously not condusive to fast times, especially over a grueling course like Cass

At Saturday's Wayne Memorial and Wayne County Invitional meets, times were amazingly low due to cool weather. and flat courses. Last year, the RU meet was won by Dearborn High, and consequently the affair was dominated by Suburban Eight Conference schools.

Fingers crossed

By W.W. EDGAR

Veteran followers of the Michigan football team are keeping their fingers crossed after what happened before the 104.211 fans last Saturday afternoon.

They had seen the Wolverines conquer Michigan State, 40-10, but there was more to the game than the final score. They had seen the Spartans complete 25 passes during the afternoon and they also groaned when the supposedly Michigan power house failed to score in each of two occasions inside the five-yard line. And one of these was from the one-yard line.

Desite all the speed and power." one of the old grads confided in the press box. the team still doesn't have good pass defense. And that failure at the one-yard line was inexcusable. It was a reminder of the day at Ohio State several years ago when they let the Rose Bowl slip through their fingers by failing to get the winning touchdown in four tries from the one yard line

Aside from these two weaknesses the Wolveries fumbled more than have done in a game in a long while- and each fumble proved costly

Neither Northwestern nd Indiana, whom the Wolverines meet on the road during the next two weeks, should furnish any

But slips like fumbles against State and weak pass defense could raise havoc-

Otherwise the team is looking forward to writing some new chapters in the record book. If Michigan downs Northwestern Coach "Bo" Schembechler will get his seventy-second victory and pass the legendary Fritz Crisler in career triumphs.

Jim Wood, the fancy little kicker, also will be shooting for two marks- the record for field goals and the number of kickoffs that travel into the end zone.

And all eyes will be on Rob Lytle, the all-around back who is aiming at the alltime career rushing record of 3.072 yards now held by Billy Taylor Lytle now has 2367 vards to his credit. He also set a Ten Big record against Michigan State when he averaged 18 yards a carry on 10 car-

Touch grid results

Unusual plays marked this weekend's action in the Plymouth mens' touch football league.

Game one saw Realty World remain undefeated with a 20-0 shut out over winless Wagenschutz. After a scoreless first quarter, Realty World put together a sustained drive capped off when quarterback Gary Knapp hit Dennis Finfrock with a 20-yard pass for a touchdown.

After a short Wagenschutz punt, the Realty World offense scored once again as Knapp hit Don Gullekson from 20 yards out. The scoring was topped off when Knapp and Ron Martinez clicked from 12 yards in the final quarter.

THE SECOND GAME featured the blue of Vettese against the gold of Ex Post Facto.

Ex Post Facto opened the scoring in the second quarter when Kurt Yockey combined with Bill Woodard on a five-yard toss, capping a 43-yard drive. Then with only 32 seconds left in the half, Vettese's Rick Neu found Clark Fullerton in the end zone to knot the score at

In the third period, Facto had the ball at the Vettese two when a deflected pass off a defensive man's hands fell into the open arms of Brian Clark for a touchdown. On the next series, Facto's Wally Strickland intercepted a Vettese pass and returned it 30 yards to the Vettese three.

Two plays later, Yockey hit Strickland for a touchdown and a 20-6 lead. As the final quarter began, Vettese had the ball fourth and goal at the Facto threeyard line. Neu threw a pass into the end zone which also was deflected but landed into the hands of Fullerton for a Vettese touchdown. The extra point kick was wide to the left, leaving the score at 20-12. Late in the game. Neu hit Darrel Manzel

We Go Easy shocks all

The shock waves are still being felt around the stables at Livonia's Detroit Race Course over the outcome of last Saturday's special $20,000 match race between the Appaloosa filly We Go Easy and the thoroughbred Right Pocket.

Almost everyone expected it to be another cake walk for the speedy 7-year-old gelding, Right Pocket, but, in a typical "proof is in the pudding" story, it was We Go Easy the winner by 1½ lengths at the finish of the quarter-mile dash.

What the thoroughbred supporters didn't understand was that Right Pocket was dealing with one of the fastest Appaloosas ever bred. She is a rare animal, and her owner, Gene Miles of Wichita, admitted the she is the only Appaloosa that can beat Right Pocket or a thoroughbred of similar

The match race was We Go Easy's last trip to the racetrack. Miles is retiring her to become a broodmare on his ranch in Kansas and plans to breed her to Shecky Greene, who was the national thoroughbred sprint champion two years ago. With seven full weeks remaining in the 1976 thoroughbred season at the DRC, officials of the Livonia track are contemplating an alteration of the racing schedule. Rumors are that the track will go to a five-day race week which would include Sunday racing.

Sunday racing was generally viewed as a success at the DRC when it was tried in 1975, but prohibitive costs due to double time salaries for union employees made it unfeasible. Reports are that talks are under way with union leaders concerning Sunday racing for the remainder of the

And with seven weeks left, jockey Wayne Catalano seems a virtual certainty to win the honors of leading rider. The 20-year-old New Orleans born rider had 87 victories through last Monday with runner-up Ramon Perez having tallied 55 wins. Perez is the defending DRC champ, having won 96 races at last year's meet. Catalano should also become the sixth rider ever to ride 100 or more winners at a DRC meet. The others were: Johnny Sellers (100) in 1957; Bobby Gallimore (116) in 1966; David Whited (119) in 1967; Larry Snyder (132-121-162) in 1969-'70-'73; and Glen Brogan (102) in 1974.

Jack Van Berg just about has the trainer standings locked up, holding a 49-26 advantage over Jack Foran, last year's leading trainer at the Livonia mile track.

Van Berg of Columbus, Neb., capured the leading trainer title at DRC in 1964, '65, '67, '68, and in '72 and '73. Jack's father, Marion Van Berg, won the trainer title in the DRC's infancy between the years 1949 and 1953. The elder Van Berg missed out in 1954 but came back to win it the following year.

This year marks the 28th year of thoroughbred racing under the DRC banner and when Van Berg adds another title to his record, it will mark the 13th time in 28 years that a Van Berg has been leading trainer.

saturday's feature will be the sweetest day purse, a $10,000 race at six furlongs for the top 3-year-old sprinters at the track. The race will be the ninth on the 10-race card which gets under way with a 2 p.m. posttime.

Salem linksmen tied in loop race

By BETTY DeLANO

Plymouth Salem, Southfield, Redford Thurston and Northville are considered by coaches as the pre-tournament title favorites among the 20 high school golf teams that will be competing for the regional championship Friday at Plymouth's Brae Burn Golf Club.

Salem goes into the 18-hole event with a 13-2 overall season record, and will be bidding to regain the regional crown it last won in 1974.

The Rocks are tied for first place in the Suburban 8 with a 6-1 record with Trenton and Redford Union, and have a strong chance to wrap up the league championship when the loop holds its own playoffs at Brae Burn Monday.

Salem warmed up for the regional test by defeating Allen Park in a nine hole match Monday at Brae Burn, beating the Jaguars, 162-181 Medalists for the Rocks were Mike Mullen and Mike Wickham, both with 39s on the par-35 course. Next in line for the Rocks were Ted Kuhns, 41, and Jim Ross,

Another team to be reckoned with in the regional will be Plymouth Canton which has a 9-5 season record. Each team will be allowed only four players and neither coach Bob Waters of Salem nor coach John Crosson of Canton had settled upon his lineup early this week

Last year's crown was won by Northville, shooting 325, with Livonia Franklin beating out Ann Arbor Pioneer for second place in a playoff after both had tied at

The first, second and third place teams, plus the individual medalist, are the only golfers who will qualify to compete in the state Class A championships to be held Oct. 23 in Battle Creek.

NCE UPON ATIME...

Once upon a time, in a cold, snowy land (like Michigan), lived a handsome prince known to all. But while he was known to all, he didn't know it all. Especially about saving money. Every month on his energy bill, he was paying for wasted energy. This made our prince doggone sad.

Then along came a representative of his energy company suggesting that he insulate his castle and cut that bill down a notch or two. And things got better.

Before winter came again, he put up storm windows, checked the caulking and weather stripping and added insulation. And made sure his furnace was sunning at peak efficiency.

The prince still had time to enjoy things like football games and falling leaves. But more than that, he was happy knowing that his energy bill wouldn't be as big and bothersome as in the past.

Then he decided to tell everyone else how they could save, too. So he wrote a book called, "It makes $ense to save ENERGY."

This book may not help you live happily ever after, but it will help reduce your energy bill this winter.
